"Million Dollar Rain" Helps Crop Outlook

This section was drenched on Tuesday evening by a heavy rain that brought two or more inches of moisture. It was the heaviest rainfall here for several weeks and was gladly received, although it came too late to do much good for the parched corn crop, the rain was of great benefit to the peanut crop, pastures and other vegetation.

In commenting on the rain, Drayton Smith said it was worth at least a million and a half dollars to Coffee County. Other farmers have expressed similar opinions.

The first days of August have been similar to the record-breaking heat readings of June and July. It was reported that Tuesday's rain was quite general in Southeast Alabama.

About People and Things

BAD GUESS ENJOYED—When I saw the same Cam Rucker pitcher take his place on the mound Monday night, who had been in the mound two weeks ago, I made the prediction that the locals were in for another slaughter. When the All-Stars jumped into an early lead and continued to do it, I was the butt of much good-natured taunting from even my best friends. My guess was all wet and I was glad of it. No one present enjoyed my failure as a prognosticator more than I did.

"HUMIDITY" HURTS

In commenting on the extremely hot weather of the past few days, Levy Polley remarked: "It's not the heat so much—it's the humidity that hurts."

NEW WAY TO CATCH FISH—C. Y. Martin says he has caught many kinds of fish in various ways, but recently employed a method new even to him.

Mr. Martin said he was wading in Beaver Dam creek in his pasture west of town in short cut trousers legs when something ran up his pants leg. He thought it was a snake and grabbed hold, squeezing with all his might. It proved to be a large bream instead of a snake.

He said the fish was one of the coldest things he ever felt and hopes he will never have to resort to catching any more fish in such a manner.

Commendation Given Foxbrunson for Quick Action During Fire

J., Cpl. Fox H. Brunson Jr., son of Mr. & Mrs. Fox H. Brunson, was assisting in an overseas orientation program before 500 European-bound men when it broke out. He was in the crowd when the fire broke out and he was the first to take command of the situation. He dismissed the crowd from the theater in an orderly manner and then directed the operation of extinguishing the fire.

A member of Alabama's famous "Dixie" National Guard Division, Cpl. Brunson is slated for release from active duty later this month. His wife, Jean, lives with him in nearby New Brunswick, N. J.

SOLVES WATER BILLS
When Whitman Drug Co. installed an air conditioning system in its store, J. D. Whitman said he was dumbfounded when he received a water bill for more than $40 for a month's consumption. HOT IN NEW YORK
John Garrett recently returned from a tour of eastern points, including New York City and North Carolina, to report on his trip. He said he spent one miserable night in a New York hotel. If Elba had the weather he had here, he would stay in Elba. He said he would stay in Elba if he could stand so hot. He said he would stay in Elba if he could stand so hot. QUARTERLY CONFERENCE
Dr. T. S. Harris, superintendent of the Troy district, delivered the sermon at the Elba Methodist church Sunday on "The Love of God." The text by St. Paul. The first quarterly conference was held after the preaching service and showed the general condition of the church to be quite satisfactory.

Harris complimented the local church on the improvements that have been made, noting the shade and humidity stands among the leaders in the conference in point of improvements made recently.

Mrs. G. F. Call left Friday for her home in Port Isabel, Texas after a visit in the home of her brother, C. B. McDowell. She also visited relatives in Miami, Plant City, Wabasa, Monticello and other Florida cities.

Monday night was comfortable for sleeping but the weather has been hot and a break is not promised for the immediate future.

A wave of optimism is rolling over this area among peanut growers. Up to the time recent showers began falling the peanut crop began to look like a failure.

Now growers report that a good crop is growing and promises a good yield.

Resignation of Asst. Coach Quinton Burgess leaves Elba with a heavy load. He said he will go ahead the best he can and hopes to have the cooperation of members of the squad as well as school parents.

About People and Things
by C. B. McDowell

HUSBAND EXEMPLARY
Mrs. Kline Bentley is taking an art course at Emory University. Mr. Bentley said he talked with her on the phone 3 nights ago and she said she was enjoying the studies very much. Kline said his wife has the utmost confidence in him. As a result, he has only been to Elba three times on fishing trips since his wife left.

CEMENT PRODUCTS
Ross Clark took me on a tour of inspection through his cement block plant in West Elba. The plant spreads over a lot of space and the different storage places were full of all sizes and colors of blocks.

Mr. Clark showed me some vauls which were under construction. He said he will have a blue one made for his own use, as he is partial to that color.

Mr. Clark stated that his company is in a kind of preparation to construct houses that will contain less than 500 feet of lumber. Even the roof will be concrete, poured on the job.

The walls, including partitions will be of any desired color, eliminating the need of painting. I saw so many different cement products, I will not attempt to enumerate them but one of special interest was a concrete pillar for building foundations.

I was impressed with the fact they are doing things on a big scale. Mr. Clark informs me as soon as this year's lease expires, Elba Building & Supply will use the warehouse now employed by Elba Gin & Warehouse to store peanuts.

"COMPLETE NEWS COVERAGE OF COFFEE COUNTY"
ELBA, ALABAMA, THURS. DAY, AUGUST 21, 1952

Race Develops for
All Municipal Posts

When M. A. Devane qualified for a number of posts for the election Saturday night, a councilman from Ward 2, it made a two-man race for all of the posts to be filled in the municipal election Sept. 5.

The officers to be elected are mayor and five councilmen. In the mayor's race, L. P. Mullins, running for re-election, opposes Robert E. Folsom. Mayor Mullins, during his long tenure, has seen the city government grow from a comparatively small institution to a large business. He points with pride to his many accomplishments, giving credit to the members of the city council and city employees.

An article on Robert Folsom's platform appears in another spot in the paper.

Dr. C. P. Hayes is a candidate for re-election as councilman-at-large and needs no introduction to Elba voters.

William H. Bruce, who opposes Dr. Hayes, is a newcomer to city politics. He is a partner in the Elba Cleaners and promises to further the interests of the city.

Shelby Morrow and Leroy C. Miller are candidates for the council from Ward 1. Shelby is up for re-election. In the business world he came up from a barefoot clerk to head a prosperous mercantile concern and a cement works.

Miller is a native of this community and is vitally interested in the city's welfare. He is waging an active campaign for the post from Ward 1.

J. J. Lindsey, who has taken an active part in civic affairs for many years, is a candidate for re-election as councilman from Ward 2. He has been prominent in Elba business circles for many years and has been an active member of the Elba Athletic and Athletic Association.

M. A. Devane is a young coffee county product and a newcomer in city politics. He is opposing Jordan Lindsey in Ward 2. Mr. Devane lives on Smith street and holds a responsible position at the Dorsey Trailer plant. He promises, if elected, to give his best efforts to serve the city.

C. B. (Ed) Kendrick, who took re-election in Ward 3 and finished second, is running against him. Mr. Kendrick has been engaged in the mercantile business in Elba for many years. He promises to put forth his best efforts toward furthering the best interests of the city.

Stokes Haire is making his second bid for the council, losing down by a slim margin in 1948. He is running against Sam Bean Young and Patrick Henry (Chuck) Sellers.

On Thursday evening, the council spot from Ward 1, J. A. Young is up for re-election. J. A. Young is a native of this community and has wide coverage in business affairs. He is too well known in this area to need any special introduction.

Chuck Sellers is after his second municipal office. He has wide experience in the electrical field and is in charge of the Cotton Coop in this area. He is a young man and assures his supporters of his best efforts if he is elected.

Race Develops for
All Municipal Posts

When M. A. Devane qualified for a number of posts for the election Saturday night, a councilman from Ward 2, it made a two-man race for all of the posts to be filled in the municipal election Sept. 5.

The officers to be elected are mayor and five councilmen. In the mayor's race, L. P. Mullins, running for re-election, opposes Robert E. Folsom. Mayor Mullins, during his long tenure, has seen the city government grow from a comparatively small institution to a large business. He points with pride to his many accomplishments, giving credit to the members of the city council and city employees.

An article on Robert Folsom's platform appears in another spot in the paper.

Dr. C. P. Hayes is a candidate for re-election as councilman-at-large and needs no introduction to Elba voters.

William H. Bruce, who opposes Dr. Hayes, is a newcomer to city politics. He is a partner in the Elba Cleaners and promises to further the interests of the city.

Shelby Morrow and Leroy C. Miller are candidates for the council from Ward 1. Shelby is up for re-election. In the business world he came up from a barefoot clerk to head a prosperous mercantile concern and a cement works.

Miller is a native of this community and is vitally interested in the city's welfare. He is waging an active campaign for the post from Ward 1.

J. J. Lindsey, who has taken an active part in civic affairs for many years, is a candidate for re-election as councilman from Ward 2. He has been prominent in Elba business circles for many years and has been an active member of the Elba Athletic and Athletic Association.

M. A. Devane is a young coffee county product and a newcomer in city politics. He is opposing Jordan Lindsey in Ward 2. Mr. Devane lives on Smith street and holds a responsible position at the Dorsey Trailer plant. He promises, if elected, to give his best efforts to serve the city.

C. B. (Ed) Kendrick, who took re-election in Ward 3 and finished second, is running against him. Mr. Kendrick has been engaged in the mercantile business in Elba for many years. He promises to put forth his best efforts toward furthering the best interests of the city.

Stokes Haire is making his second bid for the council, losing down by a slim margin in 1948. He is running against Sam Bean Young and Patrick Henry (Chuck) Sellers.

On Thursday evening, the council spot from Ward 1, J. A. Young is up for re-election. J. A. Young is a native of this community and has wide coverage in business affairs. He is too well known in this area to need any special introduction.

Chuck Sellers is after his second municipal office. He has wide experience in the electrical field and is in charge of the Cotton Coop in this area. He is a young man and assures his supporters of his best efforts if he is elected.
